Men and Things in New York. Finance, Etc.

NEW YORK, October 21. Elevated Railroad stocks, and suits have been commenced after the $13,000,000 of stock, representing an unmitigated financial falsehood, were sold. The stock then declined to 17. There are some wicked people in the city of New York who believe manufactured and sold the stock, and, after the confiding public had been squeezed out of their stock at from 75 down to 17, suits were compromised, and last week the stock sold at 45. Hi! presto! change! seems to be the order of the day. The Metropolitan stockholders have applied to the Supreme Court for an injunction preventing further consolidation or investigation, but your readers will please remember that these suits were commenced after the stock had advanced to 45. It would seem that every man who deals in stocks should have his own judge to grant or remove injunctions.

Mr. Vanderbilt seems to be still pursuing the even tenor of his way. Freight and passenger rates have not advanced. It is possible that the public may remember in time to come what Mr. Vanderbilt could afford to do business for under certain circumstances and at certain times; and the people may take him months and years to repent. cially if not spiritually speaking.

The Mississippi is higher than ever known before at this season of the year, and at some points it is ten miles wide. What is true of the Mississippi river is true of all its tributary streams north of St Louis. et "water" is the thing most needed in this vicin ity at the present time, as was proven by the re-cent fire, which is almost unprecedented in bringing to light downright incompetency, sham and misrepresentation. The incompetency was displayed by the city officials in not supplying water to extinguish the fire in the multiplied horse-car tables. The sham consisted in erecting a building so utterly at variance with "horse sense," and call-ing it fire-proof. The misrepresentation came in by not placing the proper name on the door-plate, which should have been "The Morrell Permanent Deposit Building." One shudders to think of what the result of such a fire would be if a gale were blowing and the water-supply insufficient. The supposition is that farm lands are too high in Westchester and Orange countles for this great city to indulge in enough land to build a reservoir for increasing the supply of water. It seems that President Gorman, of the fire department, wants to have 5,000 pounds of dynamite in readiness in case a fire should get away from him. Our own feeble impression of what dynamite is equal to, would suggest that if 5,000 pounds of it were to be used at a fire on Manhattan Island, of it were to be used at a fire on Manhattan Island, there would not be much of a city left, and very few people remaining to move their families out west. If the insurance companies would take the matter in hand and double and treble the rate of insurance on property, the probability is that the largest property holders would begin to open their eyes and take some united action to compel the authorities to remedy the evil of a short supply of water.

There is one thing to be said about President Arthur's position, and that is, that he has kept his own counsel, and his new Cabinet at present writing is not publicly known. He will find it most difficult to secure an honest man to accept the portfolio of Secretary Windom, unless he asks the writer, but perhaps, after all, to accept the portions of secretary windom, unless he asks the writer, but perhaps, after all, it would be as well if Mr. Gould were to control the Treasury. He controls the telegraphs, the railroads and most other things, and he might as well have the Treasury, too. At all events, it he had, the public would be sure of what was going

He asks whether Archbishop Croke advises the people to surrender at discretion, pay rent to their real jailors, and rescustate the corpse of landlordism. The executive of the Land League have long and carefully considered the advisability of a strike against rent, and believe it the only wise and courageous course. They are confident that it must secure a sure and speedy triumph.

NO LEAK IN THE TREASURY. - Secretary Windom is not making an investigation in regard to the alleged improper giving out of information of his recent anticipation of the payments involved in the last bond call. He will not make any such investigation. The report that the news of the Secretary's action day before yesterday became known beforehand reflects upon three officials of the department who knew of his intentions. Neither of these officers have ever yet betrayed a trust, and these officers have ever yet betrayed a trust, and the Secretary does not suspect them. It was ru-mored in New York that Secretary Windom would do what he did, and the market went up on that rumor. There are always rumors in Wall street about what the Treasury is going to do. Sometimes they are correct and more often incorrect. The rumor of day before yesterday happened to be correct. That is all there is in it.

Captain Howgate's Case.

A BENCH WARRANT ISSUED AND WITHDRAWN. Yesterday afternoon after the recognizance of Capt. H. W. Howgate (indicted for embezzlement) had been forfelted in the Criminal Court a bench warrant was issued, and in a few minutes after-wards Deputy Marshal Williams went out to arrest Howgate. In a short time Mr. A. B. Williams came into court and moved to set aside the forfeiture of the recognizance and withdraw the bench warrant. This motion was granted by Judge Cox, and a messenger sent after Deputy Marshal Williams to recall the warrant, which was done, and the warrant was cancelled. Capt. Howgate afterwards came to the clerk's office with Mr. A. B. Williams, looked over the voluminous indictment and retired.

Precisely at 12 o'clock, Capt. Howgate came in court with Judge Cuppy, Judge Wilson and Mr. A. B. Williams, of his counsel. Col. Cook, special representing the government.

Mr. Wilson stated that the indictment was found yesterday, that the bond was forfeited and it was somewhat of an expeditious way. Judge Cuppy said he was talking on the question of bond, that has been suggested, and before the government is allowed to call upon his bondsmen to enter into a new bond the question of liability upon the old bond, in view of the fact that the indictment has been found at this term, is a question that they would like to be upon. The Court.—There may be an objection raise hereafter to the irregularity of the proceeding, an if counsel for the government insist upon the in dictment being read, it should be done. The District Attorney does not want to take any risks in the matter, and I shall not compel him to do so. It will have to take the regular course. The clerk proceeded to read the indictment, oc-

THE QUESTION OF BONDS. Col. Corkhill remarked that the government

$91,000, and that the grand jury had also presented Capt. Howgate for forgery.

Mr. Wilson explained that Capt. Howgate had complied with the requirements of the government, and he ought not to be required to give additional bond, and he uttered his protest.

Col. Cook said that the real estate of Capt. Howgate aggregated $125,000, and the amount embezzled would probably exceed this amount. In this matter he was simply following the precedent in the case of Ottman.

The court said that there was one feature which looked as if it was designed to prevent the defendant from giving bond, viz.: The attachment proceedings preventing him from giving deeds to indemnify the bondsmen.

Capt. Howgate was sent to jail in default of

This brings more work to the national-bank redemption division. The cause of the increase mentioned is due to the fact that the manner of redeeming bank notes has been changed. Instead of making the senders of notes for redemption pay the express charges they are paid out of the five-per-cent fund of national banks, and thus distributed among the banks.

THE COMMISSIONER OF PENSIONS.—The nomination of Col. Dudley to be Commissioner of Pensions was reported favorably by the committee on pensions yesterday, and he will probably be confirmed by the Senate in executive session to-day. There have been, we understand, and probably will be, no charges filed against him, and action on his nomination will be taken without opposition. While there was some grounds for opposing the confirmation of Dudley, it was not thought judicious by a number of opposition Senators to make any fight against any of the first nominations made by the new President. For this reason it was decided by those who were to manage the opposition not to

DIPLOMATIC CHANGES.—Many as the changes have been in our official and resident society, within a few months, they have been in proporcorps. From the British legation Sir Edward Thornton and his wife and daughter, and Mr. de minister, is soon to go, and another is coming in his place—probably Bismarck's son, and his wife, whom he married under peculiar circumstances ot long ago. The Brazilian minister and his wife will not return; nor will the Belgian minister and Mme. Delfosse, the Columbian minister, Senor Vila, or the Italian minister and the Baroness Blanc. The Chinese ministers are to go; the Spanish minister, who was here for two years left last spring, as did the Chilian minister, Seno Asta Buruaga, and his wife, son and daughter It is said the present Russian minister is to be re-called soon, and the Nicaraguan minister died here in the summer. Several of those mentioned above had long been known in Washington, and their loss is greatly regretted. The Asta Buruaga family were specially attached to their friends here and have written since returning to Chili that they actually felt homesick in their own country for Washington and their friends here.

IMPROVEMENTS AT THE WHITE HOUSE.—The pa-

pering of the walls and frescoing of the ceiling of the Green Room at the White House is now nearly the Green Room at the White House is now nearly completed and appears to great advantage. The paper is the palest shade of green, between an apple green and Nile green; leaves of this tint are defined on a ground-of gold. The ceiling has the center of a similar hue of green and a bronzed olive frieze on a back ground of old gold, with a band top and bottom and gilt mouldings. In each corner is a beautiful, but impossible bird of a species unknown to naturalists, but which may be classed as a "decorative art bird." It has the foot of a stork, a pink body and one wing, a tall red comb, a long red bill and a fish's tail. As the colors harmonize well, viewed as a whole the bird makes a pretty ornament, though absurd as a representation of any known creature. The furniture of this parior will be the same charming shade of resentation of any known creature. The furniture of this parlor will be the same charming shade of delicate green, as the walls. The ceiling of the long corridor has been calcimined and looks very well. Unfortunately the lift, which will be comparately useless in a two-story house, has cost so much that the appropriation will be insufficient to make all the needed repairs. This lift was specially designed for the use of Gen. Garfield's aged mother, who now will pover have the benefit of it.

The Washington Market Conflict.

There was no unusual appearance in the Wash-

A little before noon Messrs. Emery, Ela and other members of the board of directors having appeared, a bell was rung and Mr. Dowling planted a red flag on the stall which had been selected as the appearance of things in the market. Dealers deserted their stands and crowded about the place of sale; the aisles for many yards around were crowded. The directors and Mr. Dowling having advertisement. Mr. Chandler then read the pamphlet containing the terms of the sale and the rules Mr. G. W. Cooper mounted a stand opposite Mr. Chandler, and stating that he was employed as counsel by the dealers notified all present that the dealers not to take part in the sale until these questions were settled. Mr. Cooper's appearance was greeted with considerable enthusiasm by the Mr. Chandler inquired if he (Mr. Cooper) had come there for the purpose of obstructing the sale

Mr. Chandler then proceeded to answer Mr. Cooper's inquiries. He said the rents had been approved by the District Commissioners, but the onuses had not. In reference to the minimum bonuses, Mr. Chandler said the old charter provided that the company might fix the minimums with the consent of the mayor and common council. As there was now no mayor or common council the company held that they themselves would fix the minimum, but still they had submitted the matter to the District authorities. The rentals as fixed by the company would not pay the rental of the market company to the District, the expenses of the market, the interest on the bonded debt of the company and leave a dollar of dividend to the stockholders. The minimums now asked for a right of 18 years would not yield so much as was yielded in 1872 by the bonuses paid for the right of two years' occupancy. The company held and was ready to maintain that the bonuses were reasonable, and if any gentleman did not wish to bid, he had the privilege of not doing so. He had heard a good many threats and misrepresentations, and that an association of dealers declared that if the company went on with the sale they would go out. This was no new fight, he said. It began in 1874. The dealers then went out, staid out ten or twelve days, and were then glad enough to come back. Some of them were persuaded to go into a scheme for building a new market house and paid bonuses of $1,500 and $1,800. He asked if they had made any money by going out and if they wanted to go out again. If so the doors were open and there was nothing to hinder them from going. If they chose to go the company would try to fill up their stalls. He wanted Mr. Cooper to understand, he

THE VACANCY in the special committee appointed at the last session to investigate the Soldiers Home at Washington, caused by the death of Senator Burnside, has been filled by the appointment of Senator Harrison. RETARYSHIP-ONLY TWO CABINET CHANGES TO B MADE NEXT WEEK. It can be stated without qualification that President Arthur, upon his return from Yorktown yesterday, found a telegram awaiting him from ex-Governor Morgan, of New York, declining to accept the office of Secretary of the Treasury which had been tendered him. In declining the trust, the governor says he is now over 70 years of area, the governor says he is now over 70 years of age that the Treasury has grown to be a department of many details in management, and for such reasons he does not care to assume the duties at his time of life. Another reason not set forth in the telegram, however, which doubtless constrained the eclination, is the fact that Gov. Morgan found that his acceptance would necessitate his giving up his commercial business. He is now at the head of the largest importing house in the sugar and coffee trade in New York city. The President may be ready with his Cabinet or Monday, but possibly not until the middle of next week. There will be but two immediate changes—a successor to Secretary Windom and one to Attorney General MacVeagh. 'The others will be retained until December. It is stated that the President first tendered the Treasury secretaryship to ex-Senator Conkling, who declined it, and will not apply to Secretary Lincoln, because the President will not remove him. It is learned that the President is fixed in his determination to give the Treasury portfolio to New York.
